101. The first of these is the fact that the number of people who are employed in the service of the Government is increasing rapidly. This is due to the fact that the Government is expanding its activities in many fields, and is therefore requiring more and more people to work for it.
 This is a very important fact, and it is one which should be kept in mind by all who are interested in the future of the country.

102. The second of these is the fact that the number of people who are employed in the service of the Government is increasing rapidly. This is due to the fact that the Government is expanding its activities
 in many fields, and is therefore requiring
 more and more people to work for it.
 This is a very important fact, and it is one which should be kept in mind
 by all who are interested in the Basle, Michael Isengrin, 1542.....£45.

- First Edition of one of the finest Herbals. "It is quite a new departure to give portraits of the artists engaged on the work; occasionally but very seldom before this time the illustrators of books were mentioned (the earliest seem to be Reuwich 1486 and Wolgemut 1493), but the name of the woodcutter occurs still less frequently and as to a portrait we do not remember another instance.
Albert Meyer is represented in the present book as making designs of the plants on paper with a pen or brush while Fuellmaurer appears to be copying another drawing on to a woodblock. A small knife lies on the table, but this may be merely for mending pens and not for woodcutting, both the portraits of the woodcutter and the illustrators are coloured". Catalogue of the German books Lettres bâtarde, double columns, 41 lines to a full page.

Title-page printed in red and black.

With numerous fine woodcuts.

4to. Morocco. Blind tooled to an ancient pattern.

Paris, Alain Lotrain, n.d. (about 1530).

In the text there are interesting cuts of plants, (quarter-page) interspersed with a few animals. There are also a large number of fine woodcut initials, white on a solid black ground. The title is followed by pages of Remedies classified according to the location of diseases, from the head downwards, a page and a half being devoted to the Spleen. The Editor seems to have been slightly in advance of his predecessors in the matter of popular beliefs, for he modifies the usual statement in regard to the Mandrake having two sexes, but a woodcut of the female plant appears, probably in deference to tradition. There is an interesting chapter on soap of different kinds, Saracen, Jewish and French and their ingredients.

Folio, old calf (worn).
Pavia, Bernardinus de Garaldis, 1516.....£35.
For a description of the remarkable woodcut (a surgeon examining a sick man and instructing three students) see Bibliographica Part III. London, 1894. p. 366. (Kristeller, books with woodcuts printed at Pavia.) Kristeller (Die Lombardische Graphik der Renaissance 285) only knew of three copies of this book, viz those in the British Museum Library, Bibliotheca Vittorio Emanuele at Rome and the Kupperstich Kabinet Berlin.
"We have to recognise in Pavia an independent group of woodcuts, quite different in character from the Milanese engravings and from those of the other towns of Italy, which derive their technique from the Ferrara school of woodcutting, whilst in drawing they show a distinct affinity to the Milanese school."
